Management's Discussion of Fund Performance

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

Balanced Fund (Class A/SVBAX) returned 17.17% (excluding sales charges) for the year ended October 31, 2025. U.S. equities delivered strong returns, driven by robust corporate earnings, easing inflation, and optimism about artificial intelligence (AI). Meanwhile, fixed-income markets were supported by declining Treasury yields and U.S. Federal Reserve interest-rate cuts amid signs of a softening labor market.

TOP PERFORMANCE CONTRIBUTORS

Information technology | The information technology sector was the largest contributor to the fund's result on an absolute basis, led by a sizable position in Broadcom, Inc. This semiconductor company continued to benefit from its strong position in the market for AI chips.

Communication services | Within this sector, Alphabet, Inc., the parent company of Google, added to the fund's performance following the firm's favorable resolution of a federal antitrust lawsuit and investors' continued enthusiasm about AI.

Higher-yielding assets | The fund's allocations to agency mortgage-backed securities and investment-grade corporate bonds were beneficial, as investor demand rose for higher-yielding fixed-income assets.

TOP PERFORMANCE DETRACTORS

Apple, Inc. | This leading consumer electronics company underperformed due to the firm's decelerating revenue growth and limited exposure to AI. The fund exited this position during the year.

Zebra Technologies Corp. | Shares of this provider of identification and data-capture solutions hampered the fund's result due to the company's challenges related to tariffs and a cautious financial forecast.
